Crop Yield Doubled By Soil Treatment

Two Applications Have Decided Advantages

Although the Corn Belt states produce nearly 20 per cent of the nation's food, crop yields in this area average only about half of what they could be if the soils were provided with enough raw materials such as lime and fertilizer elements, according to Prof. Emil Truog, head of the soils department of the University of Wisconsin.

On most of the soils of the Corn Belt, a heavy initial application of fertilizer and lime is needed right now to make up the deficit of available nutrients in the soil, he declared. This deficit, he said, always has existed in the poorer soils and has been created through exhaustive cropping on many of the better soils.

Thirty-six bushels per acre corn yield shown at left. Heavier fertilizer application brought 73 bushels per acre crop shown at right.

Truog pointed out that "heavy application of fertilizer" means in many cases the use of four to five tons of lime and the equivalent of 1,500 pounds of 0-20-20 fertilizer per acre.

Tests in Wisconsin, he added, have proved the value of such heavy initial soil treatments. Thereafter, maintenance applications are made.

In following this system, half of the fertilizer is applied and disked in before plowing. The other half is spread and disked in after plowing. Thus the whole plow layer is uniformly treated from top to bottom, creating a much better condition for crop production than when the fertilizer is applied in one dose and not thoroughly incorporated with the soil for five or six years afterward.

Minerals for Hogs

Proper growth cannot be secured, nor will health be maintained among the hogs without ample supply of minerals. Bone meal, iodized salt (stabilized) and ground limestone should be kept before them at all times.

Hogs know how much salt they need and if given free access will not take more than their system requires.

Need Extra Bars to Keep 90-Pound Boy in Jail Cell

BOONEVILLE, KY.—A boy so small that extra bars had to be placed in his cell to keep him from slipping out was held for the grand jury on a murder charge.

Owsley County Judge J. M. King said he ordered Lester Little, 14, held on the charge under $5,000 bond in connection with the fatal shooting of the boy's cousin, Price Little, 23. Lester weighs only 90 pounds.

The cousins and four other boys were engaged in a shooting match, the sheriff said, and the Little became involved in an argument over a watch chain.

Japanese Colonel Takes His Life by Freezing to Death

TOKYO.—A Japanese colonel accused of wartime atrocities pondered for nine days how to destroy himself and then froze to death at the foot of Fujiyama, Allied headquarters disclosed.

Col. Masao Kusonose, about to go on trial for ordering the bayoneting and shooting of 140 Australian soldiers and some civilians on New Britain, was found dead in his boyhood barracks.

Near the body was an open diary in which the colonel wrote to the end. His neatly folded overcoat and carefully aligned boots lay nearby.

Entries in the diary showed that the Japanese officer spent the entire period mulling over how to kill himself.

Check These Safety Tests in Farm Home

If you can answer "Yes" to these 10 statements, give yourself a score of 100 on this test for safety from fire hazards in your home. These are some of the precautions by which you can protect your house and your family from fire:

The chimney is free of cracks and holes.

Chimney top is at least three feet above a flat roof and two feet above ridge of gable and hip roof.

Chimney is cleaned regularly to prevent fires.

Stove pipe is fastened to flue securely by rivets, wire or other safe method.

A wire mesh spark arrestor covers top of the chimney (if roof is combustible).

Oily rags are promptly discarded or kept in metal containers.

Matches are in a metal container, or only safety matches are used.

Matches are out of reach of children.

Every match is completely extinguished after use.

Flashlight instead of a match is used to see in dark places.

Conservation Brings Dividends to Farms

Farmers throughout the nation have made astounding progress in soil conservation. Farmers now know that conservation pays in dollars and cents. Farmers never would have been able to roll up the production record of the war or the high, profit-making production of today had it not been for our years of soil conserving work.
